January 2018

Welcome back! We are excited to begin the new year with our Tiger children! In January we will be focusing on snow and dinosaurs. We have attached a snowman activity for you and your child to do at home and return by January 16th.

For those children who will be going to Kindergarten in the fall, the open enrollment period is from January 3 – 17. Please let Erin know if you need assistance in enrolling your child or if you have questions concerning Kindergarten transition. An informative sheet is attached about how to enroll your child.

Please watch for more information regarding the upcoming date for the Parent Information Night with NCSD special services. This will be a chance for you to ask questions about special education programs in the school district. A letter will be sent home soon with details.

Please make a note that there will be no school on Monday, January 15th for Equality Day.

As the cold and flu season is well underway, we are asking that parents review the parent handbook about CDC's policy of illnesses. While we are delighted to have your child at school, we are also concerned about their well-being as well as the other children in the classroom and hope that they are able to stay home when not feeling well. Thanks so much for your assistance and understanding with this!

This month we are sharing information about the power of music by Ryan Judd, a Musical Therapist. There is a lot of evidence and data through the fields of Neuroscience and Music Therapy that proves how beneficial music can be for children with special needs. Music is an easy, fun and motivating way to connect with children and motivate them to develop new skills.

Thank you for sharing your child with us and we hope you have a wonderful month of January!
